Claudia Birkheuer

Germany

"Illusion"
55" X 49", oil on canvas, 2012

Claudia Birkheuer decided one day to change sides. As a graduate in journalism, she worked for a German Radio- and TV-Station, she reported about people and told their stories. She still remains committed to this theme and in 1997 merely switched from creative reporting and making films to creative painting. Her paintings are different from the Zeitgeist because these are representational and narrative and at the same time colorful and decorative.

She was trained at "European Art Academy Trier", "Free Art Academy Essen", "Museum Kunstpalast Duesseldorf".

National/International galleries and art fairs showed her work in Duesseldorf, Cologne, Maastricht, London, Monaco, Barcelona, Bologna, New York, Paris, Berlin and Vienna.
